ELECTION 2015: THE RESULTS

AS Prime Minister David Cameron and his Cabinet walked back into Downing Street, Conservative leaders in Basingstoke were celebrating a return to their London Road headquarters with that all-powerful majority.

Basingstoke's council – which had been one of no overall control – swung back to the Blues during a victorious two days for the Tories.

Maria Miller was also elected as the Member of Parliament for Basingstoke, and is heading back to Westminster alongside fellow Tories Ranil Jayawardena and Kit Malthouse, who claimed the seats of North East Hampshire and North West Hampshire respectively.

Mrs Miller told the Observer: "A victory like this doesn't happen overnight, it's the result of five long years of blood, sweat and tears."

Some had predicted that Labour would run Mrs Miller close as she campaigned to represent the area for the third time.

The new-look Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council will meet for the first time tomorrow – when the new Mayor of Basingstoke will be announced.

ELECTION 2015: THE RESULTS

All blue in MP battle

MARIA Miller was declared as the MP for Basingstoke in the early hours of Friday morning during a great night for the Conservative party.

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

It has been a testing 12 months for the Tory candidate, who resigned from her position as Culture Secretary over allegations over an expenses scandal in April last year.

And she was expected to suffer in her constituency, with internet polls beforehand suggesting that Labour's Paul Harvey would run her close to become the area's next Member of Parliament.

No such struggles ever materialised for Mrs Miller however, with her total of 25,769 comfortably seeing her home for her third stint as representative for the constituency by more than 11,000 votes.

The total was actually fractionally up on her tally five years earlier – something the Conservative candidate pointed to as proof of the public's belief in her and her party despite her involvement in controversy.

She said: "When I stood here 10 years ago as the new MP of Basingstoke, I felt honoured and humbled, and I feel absolutely no different tonight.

"The expenses issue is never one that came up in any of the hustings or any of the discussions during the campaign for the simple reason that people wanted a positive campaign that focused on the future of Basingstoke, not one that focused on the past.

"I became an MP because I wanted to help people and now I have the opportunity to continue to do that."

Mrs Miller's victory sealed a hat-trick of wins in the area for the Tories, with Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council deputy leader Ranil Jayawardena and Kit Malthouse both claiming huge wins in North East Hampshire and North West Hampshire respectively.

And on a night where the party secured 331 seats nationally to form a majority in the House of Commons, the Conservative's MP for Basingstoke was in buoyant mood for the future, both locally and nationally.

Mrs Miller said: "A victory like this doesn't happen overnight, it's the result of five long years of blood, sweat and tears.

"It's clear that the public believe in us, have put their faith in our vision for the future and want David Cameron to be their Prime Minister.

"The campaign we have run has been overwhelmingly positive and now I'm really looking forward to working towards building an even stronger Basingstoke."

Labour candidate Paul Harvey came in with 14,706 votes and Ukip's Alan Stone netted 8,290.

While Liberal Democrat candidate Janice Spalding picked up 3,919 and Independent Elsayed Omar Selim, who did not attend the announcements, won 392 votes during the ballot.

Votes were counted at Hampshire Court Hotel in Chineham.

The first ballot box of votes arrived from Eastrop at 10.15pm on Thursday and the count ended at 5am on Friday before the result was announced 10 minutes later.

Mrs Miller congratulated her four rivals.

She added: "I think everyone who stands for election does so because they have a real desire to make their community a better place, and this year was no different.

"Thankfully, the Basingstoke people have chosen the right person to back."

ELECTION 2015: THE RESULTS

Candidate rues Lib Dem fall as party nets less than half Ukip's votes tally

· Liberal Democrat's Janice Spalding

LIBERAL Democrat candidate for Basingstoke Janice Spalding launched an expletive filled attack against the national press as her party lost seat after seat during a disastrous election results night which saw leader and deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg resign.

It was also a difficult few hours for the party locally as they managed to pick up less than half Ukip's tally.

They watched their support nosedive from 12,414 votes five years ago to 3,919 this time around in the early hours of Friday at the Basingstoke MP election count at Hampshire Court Hotel in Chineham.

This drop in support was mirrored across the country as the Lib Dems lost 49 seats, dropped nearly 4.5million votes, and saw Mr Clegg step down that morning.

The party's decision to form a coalition government with the Conservatives in 2010 was deemed an unpopular one.

But IT worker Ms Spalding, who lost against Mrs Miller, believes the blame for the decrease in support lies at the door of the media, who she accused of "dragging my party's name through the mud."

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

She said: "The right-wing press has done a superb job in making sure that our party has been punished and the Conservatives haven't.

"The whole thing stinks and people don't realise that all of the good policies from the last five years have come from our manifesto, and all of the * ones have come from there's.

"It's like being back in the school playground getting attacked by bullies.

"Our party's name has been dragged through the mud and that's very sad."

Many predicted Mrs Miller might struggle to retain her position as Basingstoke's MP, but Ms Spalding was not surprised that the Tories came out on top.

"People voted them in and now they aren't happy," the 53-year-old said.

"They voted for * and now they've got ****.

"Do I sound like a politician or an engineer? That's right, I sound like an engineer."

While the Liberal Democrats lost ground, Ukip made the most votes locally and nationally.

Their tally of 8,290 almost quadrupled their votes from the last election.

Despite winning 3,881,129 votes across the UK, the party only managed to pick up one seat, leading "tired and disappointed" Basingstoke candidate Alan Stone to call for a change to the "diabolical" and "flawed" voting system.

He said: "I think there's going to be some questions from the Lib Dems and us about a vote share and maybe proportional representation.

"We have to change the voting system if we're ever going to improve this country.

"The first past the post system can win most areas with 26 per cent of the vote, which is diabolical and isn't fair for anyone."

But after seeing his party increase their share of the Basingstoke vote from 3.5 per cent to 18 per cent, Mr Stone admitted to being encouraged over Ukip's future.

He added: "This election has done a lot to change the crazy image the media portray of Ukip. We've taken some big strides and changed a lot of young minds."

'Gutted' Labour vow to come back stronger

LABOUR candidate Paul Harvey has vowed to recover from the disappointment of losing out to the Conservatives.

After being predicted to capitalise on the negative publicity surrounding Tory counterpart Maria Miller beforehand, Dr Harvey ended up missing out on the Basingstoke seat by more than 11,000 votes.

It capped a disappointing night for the party, with a surprise drop in support contributing to party leader Ed Miliband's resignation.

But while Dr Harvey admitted to feeling "gutted" about the loss, he was quick to promise he and Labour would come back stronger.

He said: "The people are what matters to me the most, not my political party, and I will keep fighting for the things that they need.

"We can definitely recover from this – it's just the political cycle.

"It's the turn of the political pendulum and we will have our turn again and we will reflect, listen and come back stronger."

Dr Harvey got 14,706 votes in his bid to become Basingstoke's MP.

He added: "The support I got was tremendous, and I'm really grateful for everyone that put their trust and confidence in me. I wanted my campaign to be real and genuine and that's what it was."

Crash victim is named

A MAN who died in a car crash near Kingsclere has been named as 21-year-old Joshua Perkins from Basingstoke.

The charity worker, from Ochil Close, Buckskin, was killed after a two-car collision on the A339 on May 3.

The former Basingstoke College of Technology student was driving towards Newbury when his silver Ford Fiesta collided with a yellow Vauxhall Antara travelling in the other direction at about 7.15am.

A 56-year-old was also rushed to hospital with non-life threatening leg injuries.

Hundreds of people have paid tribute to Mr Perkins on Facebook, where he was listed as a charity worker for SeeAbility, which supports people with disabilities and sight loss.

Girlfriend Joanne Pritchard described him as "my best friend and the love of my life".

She wrote: "My life and his families have been tipped upside down and this is the hardest thing and most devastating thing to go through."

Shannon Rundle posted: "They broke the mould when they made Josh. Great guy, gone too soon."

While Martin Bell wrote: "Why has it always got to be the best people who go too soon? Rip dude, such a genuinely happy person, you will be missed massively."

An investigation into the crash is ongoing.

New MP snubs rival after 'vile' gun threat

· Ranil Jayawardena (right) alongside Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council leader Clive Saunders.

· Robert Blay

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

SECRET filming which surfaced last week appears to show a Ukip MP candidate threatening to shoot Basingstoke council's deputy leader between the eyes.

The footage, filmed by the Daily Mirror, shows Ukip's Robert Blay verbally attacking his Conservative rival for the seat of North East Hampshire, Ranil Jayawardena.

Mr Blay was immediately suspended from the party, but as the video only came to light last Tuesday, he was still allowed to stand for Thursday's election.

Cllr Jayawardena went on to claim a landslide victory by more than 30,000 votes, before then refusing to shake his rival's hand.

The recording by an undercover reporter from a public meeting in Kent on Saturday, May 2, allegedly caught the former Ukip member saying he would shoot Mr Jayawardena if he ever became the first British-Asian Prime Minister.

It said: "If this lad turns up to be our Prime Minister I will personally put a bullet in him. I will put a bullet between his eyes. That's how strong I feel about it.

"I won't have this  as our Prime Minister. I absolutely loathe him."

Cllr Jayawardena, Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council's deputy leader, was also attacked for his Sri Lankan heritage in the clip.

The 29-year-old has lived his entire life in the North East Hampshire area.

A councillor since 2008, he is also said to be one of the Conservative's best up-and-coming politicians – something he will now get the chance to put to the test after his victory.

Councillor Jayawardena said: "As a local guy, I'm unbelievably proud to be representing this constituency – there is a real buzz around this place at the moment.

"What has been said has been said and I'd be lying if I said I wasn't disappointed by his vile comments.

"But I'm happy that the people have spoken by choosing tolerance over ignorance."

During the footage Mr Blay also said: "He is not British enough to be in our parliament.

"I've got 400 years of ancestry where I live. He hasn't got that.

"He's got his missus to drop a kid just before the election.

"He's planned the birth of the child, there's no doubt about that. He's a slippery *******."

Cllr Jayawardena responded: "My family believes in hard work and my father came to this country to do just that - never claiming a penny from the state."

A Ukip spokesperson added: "The views expressed by Mr Blay are abhorrent.

"Any comments of this sort have absolutely no place in British politics or public life, and the party would like to take this opportunity to apologise to Mr Jayawardena."

ELECTION 2015: THE RESULTS

Stalwart rules out a comeback

FORMER Chineham councillor Martin Biermann has revealed he is unlikely to run for the position again.

The independent candidate has been a prominent member of Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council for over two decades – representing the constituency since 1994 and also standing as mayor in 2013.

But he has now admitted he is not planning a return after seeing Conservative Joyce Bowyer narrowly claim the position in a hotly contested vote.

He said: "I'm really disappointed because I've put a lot of work into helping Chineham, and from what I've been told, I've done a good job.

"But we've got a distorted result and that's hard for me to take at the moment because I won't now have the same opportunities to impact the area as I did before.

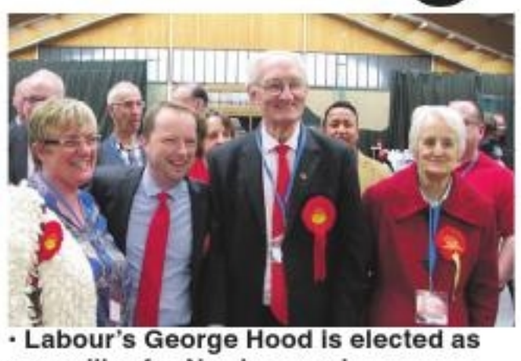
"I don't really know what the future will hold for me now."

For most other seats, Mr Biermann's tally of 2,331 would have been enough to claim the seat, but Cllr Bowyer's 2,409 votes sealed her victory to ensure there are now only four Independents on the council.

He said: "If people had voted on purely local issues, I'm confident I would've been elected. I don't want to be a dog in the manger, but it's a fact."

Tories turn Basingstoke blue

· Hatch Warren and Beggarwood councillors Rebecca Bean and Dan Putty



· Labour's George Hood is elected as councillor for Norden ward

· Tadley Central councillor Jonathan Richards

WHILE the Conservatives walked back into Number 10 as leaders of the UK with a majority, a similar shift was made in Basingstoke.

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Tories will return to Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council's London Road headquarters boasting a majority again - which they lost in 2013 - after winning 16 of the 21 spots on offer at last week's elections.

After seeing Conservative Maria Miller announced as the area's representative in parliament in the early hours, the Tories then went on to dominate the local elections on Friday, gaining three extra seats.

It all means they can now boast over half of the 60 councillors sitting on Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council with 32.

Labour managed to only hold three and the Liberal Democrats lost one seat on the council to leave them with two.

The two independent councillors up for election both lost their seats, and a vacant seat which was previously Conservative was held by the Tories.

Council leader Clive Saunders described the result as a "monumental day" for the Conservatives, adding: "It's been a superb couple of hours for us.

"I don't think any of us anticipated that we'd do so well locally, but I'd like to congratulate the people of Basingstoke for choosing so wisely."

The Basingstoke and Deane Borough Council count at Hampshire Court Hotel in Chineham started at 10.30am, just five hours after the parliamentary election count ended at 5am.

The results were all declared by 2.30pm.

But it was worth the wait for the Conservatives as they pulled off several surprises.

The biggest shock was Conservative Joyce Bowyer's narrow victory over long-serving independent councillor Martin Biermann for the Chineham seat, with both candidates picking up over 2,000 votes each.

She said: "I think we're all quite surprised because Martin is absolutely fantastic and has been with the council for a long time."

Another shock saw Conservative Hannah Golding follow her dad Rob's victory in the Oakley and North Waltham ward, by beating Labour's Janet Westbrook to seal the Brighton Hill North seat.

One of the Tories' biggest wins saw Rebecca Bean re-elected for Hatch Warren and Beggarwood by over 2,000 votes.

Cllr Bean said: "I'm bursting with pride. When you've lived in an area for your whole life, it makes it a lot more special and that extra bit sweeter."

Labour now have 17 councillors after retaining both the Norden and South Ham wards and taking the Overton, Laverstoke and Steventon seat from the Liberal Democrats.

Overton, Laverstoke and Steventon's new Labour councillor Colin Phillimore said: "I'm privileged and honoured to represent this group of fantastic people and am really looking forward to the challenge ahead."

The Lib Dem's kept the Grove and Eastrop wards, with Graham Parker seeing off Ukip MP candidate Alan Stone to claim the latter.

The results were for the one third of Basingstoke and Deane Borough council which was up for election this year.

Last year's elections, also for one third of the council, had seen Labour gain three seats and the Conservatives lose one.

Web star Spider-Dad to swing by Malls centre

A BASINGSTOKE super-dad is showcasing his alter-ego once again this Saturday alongside a few of his famous friends.

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Free runner Mike Wilson shot to fame last year as Spider-Man after surprising his terminally ill son by jumping from a rooftop dressed as his favourite web-slinging superhero.

The heartfelt video saw Mr Wilson and five-year-old Jayden gain worldwide internet fame, before the youngster sadly lost his fight against a brain tumour on Christmas Eve.

Jayden's family were cared for by staff at Naomi House and Jacksplace hospice, and his father has been raising money for the charity since.

And Mr Wilson will continue his fundraising drive this weekend by teaming up with fellow heroes from across the Marvel and DC universes at Basingstoke's The Malls shopping centre.

Batman, Iron Man and Wolverine will all be there from 9.00am to organise games for children, pose for photos and offer adrenaline-fueled prizes like the opportunity to abseil down Reading's Blade building.

The event coincides with Children's Hospice Week.

Naomi House spokesman Paul Morgan said: "Jayden's moving story and Mike's inspirational fundraising has captured the imagination of people across the UK. Mike certainly knows how to put on a show and we are confident this will be no exception."

New image of Costcutter robbery released

A NEW image has been released of a man wanted in connection with a botched armed robbery at a Brookvale Costcutters.

The person in question targeted the Downsland Parade store last month and threatened a member of staff with what was thought to be a firearm.

In a bizarre attempt to rob the store, the assailant then chatted to the shop worker after demanding that they empty the till before then leaving empty handed.

The incident occurred shortly after 8pm on April 17, with police releasing a picture of the man with his hood up on April 22.

A much clearer photo of the suspect was then released last Tuesday evening – something that has been questioned by the public on Hampshire Constabulary's Facebook page.

User John Peacock asked: "Why does it take so long to get these pictures on Facebook after the event?

"18 days – he could be in Timbuktu by now."

The offender is described as a white male with short mousey brown hair.

He was wearing a black and red cap, grey jogging bottoms and a black Nike Air Max hoody with a distinctive logo showing three white trainers on the front.

Police have revealed that the new image had only become available the day the updated appeal was released but were unable to clarify why this was the case,

Anyone with information should call 101.

OCT will give accurate diagnosis:

- AMD
- Diabetic Maculopathy
- Macular Hole
- Epiretinal Membrane
- Early detection of Glaucoma

*It is estimated that approximately 2% of people over the age of 40 will have Glaucoma.

*Statistics obtained from The International Glaucoma Association.

What is an OCT scan?

This practice has invested in the very latest OCT scanning technology.

An Optical Coherence Tomography (OCT) scan is a unique test which uses near-infrared light reflected off the retina to produce a high resolution 3-Dimensional scan of the retina and associated structures.

It is particularly useful in the assessment of patients with AMD, Diabetic Maculopathy, early detection of Glaucoma and the management of these diseases. The test is non invasive, quick and entirely painless.

Am I at risk of Glaucoma?

Are you over 40?
Do you have a family history of Glaucoma?
Are you short sighted?
Do you have diabetes?
Are you of African-Caribbean origin?

If the answer is yes to any of these questions, then you are at an increased risk and should definitely have your eyes tested regularly.*

Why has this practice invested in OCT?

We believe this advanced imagery allows us to detect and monitor early stages of diseases and as this examination is not available under the NHS, we make an additional charge for this scan. Please ask for further details.

This assessment of your eyes using OCT Technology will give us the most accurate diagnosis possible and help us give you the best advice to protect your sight and the health of your eyes.

Your eyes deserve the benefits of cutting edge technology available at this practice.

Downton star leads a tribute to brave toddler

DOWNTON Abbey star Hugh Bonneville has narrated a mini-documentary of a two-year-old's battle with a rare disease for Children's Hospice Week this week.

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Lacey Leggett lost her fight with a complex illness called mitochondrial disease on Valentine's Day last year.

The toddler, from Andover, was cared for at Naomi House children's hospice near Basingstoke.

Her parents Lisa and Dominic Leggett released the touching seven-minute film alongside famed actor Hugh Bonneville to pay tribute to Lacey and the Sutton Scotney hospice which cared for her.

Mr Leggett said: "Saying our goodbyes to her was the hardest thing that you could ever go through.

"But Naomi House just helped with every aspect of it."

Doctors took more than a year to diagnose Lacey with mitochondrial TK2 cell depletion after she became ill at just six months old.

· Lacey with mum and dad Lisa and Dominic Leggett

She had been born a healthy baby, but the disease means cells cannot produce enough energy and sometimes do not work at all.

Lacey eventually lost her ability to move, talk and eat.

After the diagnosis, Lacey and her family were introduced to Naomi House's paediatric palliative care consultant and emergency care team where they were supported.

Mrs Leggett said: "I remember Lacey's first visit.

"It was a really sunny day and she looked out of her bedroom window and her smile just said we'd made the right decision.

"The help was there when we needed it and I am thankful for that because I don't know how we would've got to that point without it."

Keith Wilson, marketing manager at Naomi House, said: "Lisa and Dominic's courage has enabled us to really show people what Naomi House is all about.

"We are indebted to them for sharing Lacey's moving story and giving many thousands of people a better understanding of our transformational work."

Killer poetry

A PAIR of performers will go head to head in a battle to the death...by poetry...at The Forge tonight.

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Dead Poet's Death Match will see MC Mixy and Mark Grist perform a number of different poems, giving the audience the gruelling task of crowning their winner at the end of the battle.

"We're both writers and performers really. We just have different influences and backgrounds," MC Mixy told the Observer.

"The simplest way to explain would be to say that Mark is a poet and I am a rapper, though after working together for a number of years now, it's fair to say our styles have both blended and have met somewhere closer to the middle.

"The show is a mix of styles and genres but if I had to pick three, it would be poetry, rap and comedy."

The pair met in a pub about six years ago where MC accidently caught his hoody on fire.

Mike was first onto the scene to extinguish the flames with a glass of coke.

It was from this odd scenario that the two sparked up conversation and decided to create material together.

Their first run of shows around the country was successful enough for the pair to leave their day jobs to perform full time.

But MC told the Observer there are other plans for the future.

"We must have done thousands of gigs together all over the country now, and this will likely be our last tour ever, if not for a very long time," he said.

"The show we are touring here is something we've been developing for the last year or so where we blend elements of spoken word, poetry, comedy, rap and rap battles.

"We've both selected a team of our favourite dead poets (four each) and will be letting audiences around the UK choose who they would like to include in each show. We will use our ability as writers/performers to relay some info about these chosen poets and then don the stage dressed as them in a heated fight to the death."

After the tour in June he plans to move to China and teach English for at least a year.

The show starts at 8.15pm tonight, May 13, at the Churchill Way theatre.

Pratchett's Macbeth

AN alternative spin on William Shakespeare's Macbeth will be brought to life from Friday May 15 to Saturday May 23, when 'Wyrd Sisters' makes its way to The Phoenix Theatre & Arts Centre in Bordon.

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Performed by the Phoenix Players, 'Wyrd Sisters' was written by the late author Sir Terry Pratchett, which was published in 1988 as the sixth novel of the Discworld series, and focuses on an evil Duke and Duchess who plan to take the throne for themselves.

"Anyone who has read Discworld or seen any kind of adaptation of Terry Pratchett's work will instantly recognise his unique sense of humour," actress Shanie Grant, who plays Granny Weatherwax, told the Observer.

"The script is so much fun to work with because it's so funny, but it's also been a challenge to us as actors to deliver that humour.

"Also, I would say that the humour is certainly more towards adults as it's very unique, but if there are younger audience members who are familiar with the Discworld novels and TV adaptions like The Hogfather, then it's something they would certainly love."

Director of the production Julie Sharp added: "The best thing about performing to an audience that appreciates live theatre is the build-up.

"First the audience is expectant, then they start to relax and then they abandon themselves to go with you. When the trust process happens the audience and the cast become one entity and everyone feels the difference."

The run of shows at the Station Road venue comes three months after the death of Sir Terry Pratchett, who died on March 12 aged 66, after battling with Early-onset Alzheimer's disease since December 2007.

And Shanie confirmed there will be a tribute to the author.

"When we all heard the news of Terry's death, it seemed very strange and I think it made us make each word count that little bit more during rehearsals," she said.

"Our performances will certainly be dedicated in his memory and we'd like to think he would be very proud of us."

WARSAW PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS
One of the choral masterpieces of the twentieth century, Szymanowski's Stabat Mater fuses his fabled command of orchestral sonority and exquisite lyricism with a simplicity and clarity derived from his profound study of Polish folk song and early church music. Beethoven's Ninth Symphony crosses an immense musical and emotional span in its four movements, ending with a jubilant vision of mankind linked in universal brotherhood.

Hyundai's i40 is ready to go

REVIEW: Hyundai i40

By James Richings

SOUTH Korean car manufacturer Hyundai have announced the prices for its new i40, which is ready to hit the roads.

The cost of the new model range from £19,600 to £28,850.

The large family car, which was first introduced in 2011, is now available in four different trim levels - the S, SE Nav, SE Nav Business and Premium.

It includes fresh styling and improved efficiency, as well as a new seven-speed dual-clutch transmission, which has replaced the previous automatic transmission.

The most notable redesigns are the front grille and front bumper, and with reshaped front and rear lights.

The S trim on the i40 Saloon includes 16" alloy wheels, Bluetooth connectivity, air conditioning, a leather steering wheel, automatic headlights with dusk sensors and steering wheel audio with telephone controls.

The SE Nav trim has touch screen satellite navigation with a rear view parking camera and parking system.

Priced from £21,600, the SE Nav adds to the S-model's specification with DAB radio, an auto dimming rear view mirror, climate control with auto defog, heated front seats, LED front fog lights and a seven speaker sound system.

The SE Nav Business model goes further, with keyless smart entry and a start/stop button, while the range of Premium models include 18" alloy wheels, a panoramic sunroof with electric tilt and slide, along with a lane departure warning.

"The introduction of new i40 Tourer and Saloon means that the Hyundai range now has a fresher and more dynamic look, with changes aimed to appeal particularly to the requirements of our fleet customers," president and CEO of Hyundai Motor UK Tony Whitehorn said.

"The addition of the SE Nav as a new trim level provides a clear contrast from the traditional SE models and identifies the standardisation of our highly capable navigation system."

Bristow and playing trio pen new deals

BASINGSTOKE Town have started their preparations for next season by securing the futures of manager Jason Bristow, full-back Tom Bird and forwards Chris Flood and Lloyd Macklin.

Following a superb season that saw 'Stoke reach the Conference South play-offs, the club has moved quickly to ensure they can build another promotion challenge next year.

Bristow and assistant manager Michael Gilkes will stay at the helm, although the capture of last season's top scorer Flood last Friday will undoubtedly generate the most excitement.

The 25-year-old's 19 goals played a huge part in the club's third-placed finish, while he also scored Town's only goal in the play-off loss to Whitehawk.

And Flood has called on his team-mates to carry on where they left off next year and get that elusive promotion to the Vanarama Conference.

He said: "I'm very happy to pledge my future to Basingstoke Town.

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

"This season has been successful and a really enjoyable one to be part of too.

"The fans have been great to me and I'm looking forward to building on the success."

Macklin also played a big part in the club's leap up the division, scoring seven crucial goals, alongside Flood, and manager Bristow was quick to express his delight in signing the pair up once again.

He said: "Chris has been a big player for us this season and we're delighted he has committed to the club for another season.

"He has scored some big goals and been a huge part of our success.

"Lloyd has also been fantastic for us – his pace and power gives our squad another dimension."

Bristow added: "He has scored some important goals and has a fantastic attitude."

The Basingstoke boss was also quick to stress the importance of convincing left-back Bird to sign on for another term, after re-joining the club at the start of the campaign having previously been a youth team player in 2008.

With a total of 50 appearances, Bird played more minutes than any other player in the squad, while he also scored four vital goals from defence to ensure 'Stoke wrapped up third spot.

Bristow said: "Tom's had an excellent season and we are delighted to have him on board for next season, despite interest from other clubs.

"He's another local player who brings so much to the team, both on and off the pitch."

Baird signs on for third year with Bison

BASINGSTOKE Bison have firmed up their backline for next season by signing Joe Baird for a third straight year.

The re-signing of the popular Southampton-born player comes after the club had already secured the futures of defencemen Kurt Reynolds and Declan Balmer in recent weeks.

Baird made his debut for the Stampede back in 1995 during their time in the Heineken League Premier Division and will become only the ninth player in the club's history to pass the 250 appearance mark this campaign.

And after helping the Herd to a double cup victory two seasons ago following his arrival in 2013, Bison director of hockey Doug Sheppard has called on the 34-year-old to have a similar impact again this time around.

He said: "Joe brings a lot of leadership to our defence and is a real key player for us.

"I like physical defencemen and he certainly fits the bill."

Last season saw the club fail to follow up their success the year before by failing to win any trophies, and Baird revealed that a desire to put that right was part of his decision to sign on for another season.

He said: "It was an easy decision to once again play for the Bison, but we want to make sure we improve on last season and win some silverware.

"With the signings we have already made, I see no reason why this cannot happen."

Bountymen win second match

BASINGSTOKE and North Hants won their second game on the bounce on Saturday to maintain their unbeaten start to the Southern League Division 1 season.

The Bountymen narrowly managed to hold on to beat Liphook and Ripsley by one wicket on their first away trip of the new campaign.

After the home side decided to bat first, Basingstoke managed to bowl them all out for 113 in 30 overs, with Mitch Stokes finishing as the Bountymen's leading wicket taker with superb figures of six wickets for a loss of just ten runs.

Craig Williamson (17) was most prolific with the bat, with lower order pairing Lawrence Benge (16) and David Pistorius (5) seeing the visitors across the line with the final partnership of the match to seal another win for Basingstoke.

Their next match is against Totton and Eling next Saturday at May's Bounty.

Rose misses the cut at Sawgrass

JUSTIN Rose exited the Players Championship early on Friday after failing to make the cut at Sawgrass.

The North Hampshire golfer finished on 145 (-1) from an inconsistent two rounds and threatened to boil over on more than one occasion.

Rose is well known for keeping his emotions in check, but he uncharacteristically let his temper get the better of him in Florida as he booted his bag and then threw his club narrowly wide of his caddy following mistakes at the fifth.

The 2013 US Open winner recovered to set himself up for a good first round with five birdies after 15 holes leaving him four under.

But he picked up a bogey on the 16th and a double bogey on the final hole of the round to leave him with a disappointing first day score of 71.

Rose carried on his inconsistent form into the second round as he followed up three successive birdies with a double bogey to leave him facing an uphill task.

And another double bogey at hole four sealed Rose's fate as he finished the day with a score of 74 to ensure that he missed the cut for the second tournament in a row.

COLLARD RACES ONTO THE PODIUM AT HOME TRACK

ROB Collard narrowly missed out on victory in Sunday's British Touring Car Championship in a largely disappointing homecoming to his Hampshire track at Thruxton.

By Christian Wilson
christian@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The Hook-based driver came second in race two, either side of two lowly finishes to leave him eighth overall in the drivers' standings come the chequered flag.

A fastest lap of 1:17.369 on Saturday saw Collard qualify in 10th, 0.584 seconds off the pace of pole setter Aron Smith, and the 46-year-old would've been encouraged to see the pace of his West Surrey Racing teammate Andy Priaulx who lined up in fifth place on the grid.

But while the Guernseyman managed to cross the line fifth in race one, no such pace materialised for Collard who never came close to challenging eventual winner Gordon Shedden, instead finishing in 13th after 16 laps.

Race two saw a huge transformation for the WSR driver however, as he ended up on the podium following a cat and mouse battle with BMR VW racer Jason Plato that saw the 47-year-old win his 90th BTCC race.

Before the race, Collard had revealed his intention to maintain the lead for the opening three laps so as to build enough heat into his Dunlop tyres to claim the win outright, and he showed his intentions straight away as he tore past Plato from the starting line.

Collard wasn't able to reach the three lap mark though as Plato took back the lead just before the end of the second lap.

And that's how it would stay for the Hampshire racer in a race that saw his rival hold him off with strong defence, pulling away on the straights after seeing the BMW close in at the corners.

The third race capped a fairly frustrating weekend for Collard, who finished in 14th place, over 16 seconds behind the WIX Racing Mercedes of Adam Morgan.
